"In this year of Jubilee you shall return." - Leviticus 25:13

29/4/2020, William Cleary

1. Blest are the eyes that see; The ears are blest that hear The trumpet of the Jubilee, The great sabbatic year.

2. We plough, nor sow no more, Nor toil for living bread; For we've a never failing store, A table plentiful spread.

3. The servant now is free; The hateful, heavy yoke (That all might taste true liberty) From every neck is broke.
